

I Knocked on 1000 Doors So You Don't Have To

Selling anything, from doorbells to DMs

Everyone is always selling something.

You're always selling you.

Not everyone here will start a company.

Everyone here will sell themselves.

- In every interview
- As a founder — your vision, to customers and investors
- As an intrapreneur — your ideas, inside someone else's company

I volunteered to knock on doors.

Two months · Verizon 5G internet · door-to-door

verizon

50 "no"s in an afternoon.

THEN YOU RING THE NEXT BELL.

PART 1

The evolution of the sale

ERA 1

The marketplace

In person. Face to face.

ERA 2

Door-to-door

You are interrupting dinner.

ERA 3

The phone

Cold calls and scripts.

ERA 4

Digital

The doorbell became a button.

The channel changed.
The human didn't.

PART 2

How you actually take money

...and measure demand

Accept payment before you build.

A single Stripe link. That's it.

If they won't pay,
it's a hobby — not a business.

"Be the first to find out."

A one-page site. An email box. Real demand.

Pre-sells beat surveys.

A deposit is the only honest survey.

- Tesla Roadster — $5,000 due today to reserve
- Cybertruck, Semi — same playbook
- Facebook — wait in line for an invite
- Books — pre-order before they're printed

The Hormozi map

Four ways to get a customer

Four lanes. Only four.

	Warm	Cold
1-to-1	Warm outreach	Cold outreach
1-to-many	Content	Paid ads

Warm outreach

Start here. It's free.

Cold outreach

My daily reality.

Content

Sells while you sleep.

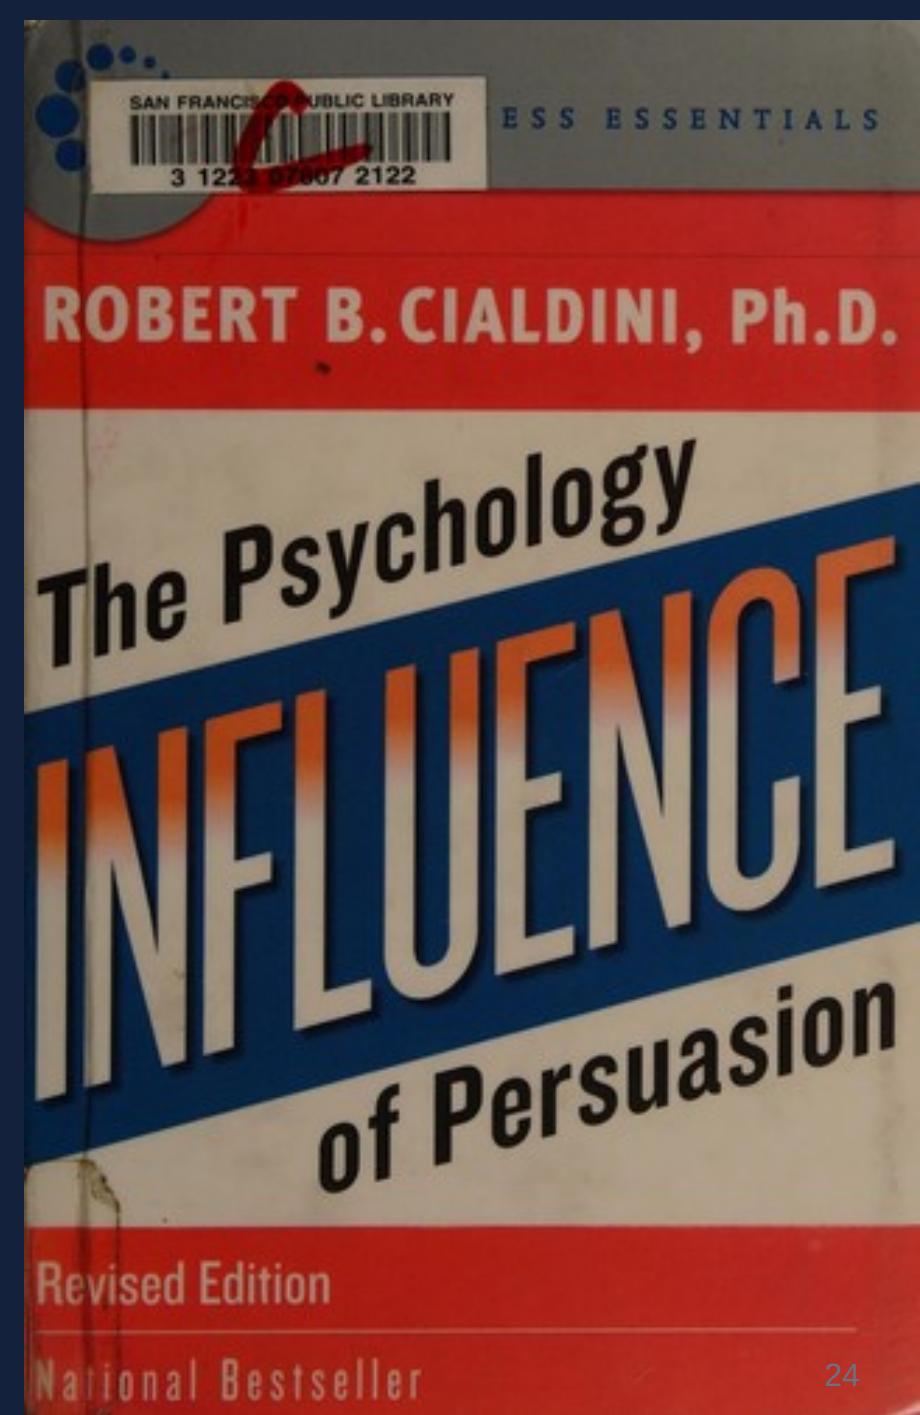

Paid ads

Buy attention — last.

Saturate ONE lane
before you add a second.

PART 4

The psychology that never changes

Reciprocity

Give first.

Liking

Bring joy and people buy from you.

Social proof

"Join 400 others."

Authority

Be the obvious expert.

Scarcity

Real deadlines. Real limits.

Consistency

Small yes → big yes.

Unity

"People like us."

It all stems from one habit.

Seek first to understand,
then to be understood.

— 7 Habits, Habit 5

Think win/win.

The sale that screws the customer kills the next ten referrals.

Tactics without trust
is just manipulation.

PART 5

My reps, unfiltered

The Verizon doorstep

Detachment from outcome.

Navy recruiting

The hardest product on earth.

YOUR TURN

Sell me something

30-second pitch.

I'll object. We fix it together.

This week:

put up a "notify me" page.

Send 10 warm-outreach messages.
